

HOW TO HOST A BREAD TAGS FOR WHEELCHAIRS PUBLIC COLLECTION POINT

1. A collection point is a place the public can drop off their collected tags. The locations of these points are shown on the map on our website (ozbreadtagsforwheelchairs.org.au). For privacy reasons, if a collection point is at a private home, we just show the town/suburb, not the full address, so people need to contact the host for the address. If you'd just like to collect within your own organisation, see Aussie Bread Tags How to Collect.
2. A collection point can be your home, workplace, school, child care centre, a local business, church, community centre, library or anywhere that is willing! Get permission from the organisation if applicable.
3. If possible, get (preferably re-use!) a container, e.g. cardboard box, baby wheelie bin, where people can put the tags. There is some signage below that you can use on the container.
4. Let us know your name/organisation name, town/suburb or full address, email address and contact name and number. We will add this to our list of collection points and put you on the map.
5. Whenever you are ready, take your tags to our central collection point in your capital city. We will send you the location when you register as a public collection point. There is no minimum or maximum drop off quantity.
6. If you have any questions, visit our website ozbreadtagsforwheelchairs.org.au and read our FAQ, or contact us on aussiebreadtags@gmail.com or on FB @aussiebreadtags.
